1 Program • Project Title / Activity No. :

Hold workshop to share adaptation and mitigation measures adopted by each economy and to discuss the applicability to other economies / No.31

2 Responsible Economy

Japan

3 Objectives

APEC member economies need to promote cooperation for food security. It is important to create a platform to share information which each economy has widely among the APEC members economies and manage food security properly in each. This workshop aims to share and exchange information such as good practices, experiences, and legal and social measures on climate change and food security.

4 Synopsis of Activities

- The Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries of Japan held APEC workshop on a food security with participants from APEC member economies, January 17 to 19 2012 in Tokyo, Japan.
- The speakers and participants shared information and views on the adaptation and mitigation measures to cope with climate change. Speakers from APEC member economies presented their experience and views on the importance of mainstreaming adaptation and mitigation into usual policy making and the needs for further international collaboration. Interactive discussions were conducted between speakers and participants, and participants identified that there was plenty of room for benefitting all economies by collaborating in the research field with each other.
